GEO 210, Course Review, Patrick Shabram, FRCC - Larimer

This course was created due to a NSF grant that supports working with industry partners to provide internships to students, professional development to faculty, and develop curriculum. The goal is to establish courses that lead from a community college setting to the professional world by preparing them for a career in the geosciences. The question was asked whether GEY prefix had seen the course. Jennie Gross volunteered to send it to the discipline list for review. The title was changed to Survey Of Geoscience, not Survey in. Competency #3 and #4 were revised from the original as well. Course was approved unanimously.

MEE, New Prefix, Michael Pickering, CCA

This prefix is being proposed due to the changing needs of industry, specifically the needs of students who intend to start their own businesses or otherwise represent themselves in the music industry. Research done by Mr. Pickering indicates that industry needs and student goals align well, but current educational offerings do not necessarily support these aims. The prefix was approved unanimously.

GT Pathway review, 2:2 conference, 80:20 rule

The importance of competencies was reviewed – they provide guidance for instructors, a framework for assessments (such as CBE and PLA), and may also help graduates find employment. In order to facilitate these and other goals (including transfer, upper level course pre-requisites, and HLC), competencies must be consistent. A review of SP 9-71 and a discussion of the “80:20” rule followed. It was proposed that the 80:20 rule may not fully support all of the aims of competencies as discussed. The Interest Based Bargaining Process was reviewed and proposed as a framework for further discussion and consensus building on this topic. A subcommittee of Mike Anderson, Carol Kuper, Matthew Wilson, Lynnette Horner, Jennifer Harrell, and Christine Gaudinski was formed to further pursue the issue and report back to the main committee. A timeline for gathering interests related to the issue, options to address the issue, and selecting an option to resolve the issue will be sent out to the committee.

The pathways review proposal raised concerns around the auditing process and the lack of an appeal process. The committee was encouraged to send specific concerns to either Scott Thompson or Dr. Tammone.

Discussion of Voting Measures for Disciplines at the 2:2

It was agreed that there does not have to be a unanimous agreement for a measure to pass at a 2:2 meeting. A simple majority is enough to pass a measure. Each college has one vote, regardless of the number of faculty present from that college. If all faculty do not agree on a measure, the college will choose who casts its vote. It was noted that valuable information on this process is in the SFCC handbook and the discipline chair handbook. The suggestion was made that the voting rules be added to materials given to state discipline chairs at the 2:2.
